CASE IN COURT.

State Engineer Hall resumed the witness standto Mr. Hart)-I yesterday stated that I did not consider myself an experienced mining engineer. I have, however, made a special study of hydraulics. and the duty of water on the material in mines. I have had a dozen or more mining pits measured, in order to establish the facts in that direction. that steam is generally used in the management of pilot wheels on river steamers. It is used in differ-ent ways in the management of large steam vessels.

My estimates are all based upon the results obtained by actual investigation. The duty of water s not the same on all the material contained i the mines. My estimates I consider an average of witness exhibited the instrument, and explained how the same is used.] The samples from middepth, and all samples taken from beneath the surface, were taken with this instrument. The samples from the surface were dipped. The name of the test used in obtaining the amount of material in these cases would be called the filtering process. We also have used tubular shaped, flat-bottomed bottles in many instances, in which the material was allowed to settle. When the miterial is composed largely of sand it soon settles and forms on the bottom very compactly. After the water stands for a week or so the settlement or deposit is generally completed. We have some water stands for a week or so the settlement or deposit is generally completed. We have some samples in the office that have been allowed to stand several months. Water settled in this manner will, within a week or ten days, show within 10 or 15 per cent. of that obtained by the filtering process. Sand when deposited by running water takes a more compact form than when settled in still water. In the case of mud it is more compact when dry and lodged on bars than when occupying a position in water. This card shows the weight and amount of suspended matter held in each nd amount of suspended matter held in each erred to my report yesterday to refresh my memory Mr. Belcher—Mr. Hall, will you please read from our report your statement as to the amount of we did not ask it, and object to the counsel on the opposite side doing so. They wish to make evidence out of this report, which they have no right to do. The report is not confined to the American basin, but takes in all the river basins of this State.

The Court held that the report, which embraces many different subjects, was not admissible as proper evidence.

W. C. Belcher was then allowed to read to the Court the following extracts from the published resort of Engineer Hall:
"Taking the volume of material carried by the "Taking the volume of material carried by the upper Saeramento as a guide, I am enabled to Judge somewhat of the amount washed off from lands by natural action. Then, with drainage areas considered, and a liberal allowance for wash from old mining dumps and deposits, and from heavily cut roads, etc., I am enabled, in the case of the Feather and the American, to estimate upon the portion of their sediments in suspension, due to similar causes—the natural washings from lands. The following exhibit gives the result:

Natural Wash

River

otal cubic yards......4,900,000 13,200,000 "To recapitulate: There were in the past year the Sacramento valley in suspension by the river aters. Of this 4,090,000 cubic yards was due to atural wash, and 13,200,000 yards directly to ming operations. Of the whole, 2,100,000 escapet to or settled in the basins, and 16,000,000 cubic ards were carried in the waters of the main river it Sacramento.

From the foregoing it may be seen that 40.564, cubic yards of material were put into the ather river and its main tributaries by the hy, aulic mining process during the past year; and we estimated that 9,700,000 cubic yards of the seed out in suspension—about 24 per cent. Also, at 8,604,000 cubic yards of material were put into e American river canyons; and I have estimated at 3,500,000 cubic yards of this amount were car d out in suspension—about 40 per cent.

"The first result is every way satisfactory, and out what might well be expected. The second quires some explanation. It will be noticed that comparatively large allowance has been made for a natural wash from the American river mountain the natural wash from the American river mountain water-shed. This has been done because there is a nuch greater area of cultivated ground there than in any of the basins tributary to the rivers further north, and because the surface is in great part a red soil easily washed; and furthermore, the large number of old abandoned mines along the river's bluff and banks furnish a great quantity of very fine sedementary wash with every heavy storm, which has no parallel in the other regions with which it is compared; and whole country, moreover, is more cut up with roads and paths, where dust is formed, to be washed down in winter. So much for the nabe washed down in winter. So much for the na Mr. Cadwalader—Mr. Belcher, please read the paragraph following. Mr. Belcher—I do not wish to do so. Read it

Mr. Belcher—I do not wish to do so. Read it yourself if you choose.

Mr. Cadwalader reads: "The materials put into the American river are of a lighter nature, con ain more top soil on the average, than those of the Feather, Yuba, Bear or any other stream now being considered. At some points almost the entire washing sometimes is in this red soil, which all goes off in suspension. At other points, where the material is heavier, the great fall which it has into the deep canyons, and the immense pulverizing nower of the anyons, and the immense pulverizing power of the cods there, grind it to the finest atoms, and thus it scarried up in the waters. The fine character of the material washed in the river is shown to a decree by the extraordinary high duty which the rater performs—4½ cubic yards to the 24 hour inch, the average, as against 3 and 34 cubic yards i

Mr. Hart objected to the examination of the wit-ess on any points except such as directly related to be American river. Witness continuing—The area of the American viver basin, as near as we can make it out from the best maps, is about 1,889 square miles. This in-cludes only

THE FOOTHILLS And mining portion of the basin. The extracts which you have just read from my report, as far as they relate to the American river and the estimates therein contained, are about as near right, in my judgment, as could have been made. I have never seen any reason why I stould change the opinions and figures as therein expressed. The American river basin includes portions of El Dorado, Piacer and Alpine counties.

Mr. Belcher-Can you inform me of the area of cultivated lands in El Dorado county?

Mr. Cadwaluder—I object.

Objection overruled.

mr. Cadwaleder—I object.

Mr. Cadwaleder—I object.

Witness, continuing—My knowledge of the extent of cultivated lands in El Dorado and Placer counties is limited. A small portion of the county of Sacramento lies within the basin of the American river. M. Bosqui made the surveys at the Gold Run mine in August or September, 1879. I sent Mr. Grunsky there in November of this year to measure the pit as it now exists. I don't consider my judgment as to the material of the mine as good as that of those engaged in its mining, but for all practical purposes I consider my judgment good. The pasturage of sheep and other hoofed animals on the hillsides destroys the cohesion of the soil and readers it more easily washed by winter storms. I never have been to the snow line of the American basin. (The witness was examined at great length as to the formation and the material composing the mines in different portions of the basin. He also agreed to furnish the counsel with various data from his office.)

About 1866 I noticed very marked changes in the EIGHTEENTH DAY OF THE SLICKENS river's channel and bed. It began to fill up rapidly with sand and sediment. RIO VISTA,

1 should judge, will average from 12 to 15 feet in depth. The stern-wheel steamers Apache and Mode are the largest vessels at present navigating the Sacramento river. They do not draw so much water as did the Chrysopolis, Capital, Yosemite and other vessels that formerly navigated its waters. The shoaling of the river and the sand-bearing water slows the steamers at least 30 per cent. The vessels formerly were handled in the current much more easily than at present. The pilot wheels of the steamers Apache and Mode are handled with steam. RIO VISTA, Have seen the sand moving in sheals in the river. These sheals shift about from place to place, and sometimes move a half a mile in 24 hours. The steamers very often become grounded on those mov-ing waters. The channel has been much better this the mines. My estimates I consider an average of the duty of water on the material of the entire

pit. A small proportion of cobble stone and gravel renders the working of a mine easier than if all he material were sand.

The NATURAL WASHINGS
I spoke of, all take place during the winter storms.
They come from the hillsides, agricultural lands,
traveled roads, old mining excavations where the material is loosened and exposed, and old mining dumps. The old mining dumps and exeavations, the result of old mining, increase to a great extent these natural washings. I here have fifteen small bottles containing scdiment, obtained from filtering water
taken at various times from the American river,
from different points between Folsom and its mouth.

COMPARATIVELY CLEAR THIS YEAR

W. S. MESICK worn—I reside in Sacramento, and am lengaged i known this land intimately since 1849. It has always been considered first class bottom land, and the soil consists of black loam. The land has become wetter, coder and less susteptible of a high state of cultivation, owing to the water coming nearer the surface caused by the filling up of the bed of the Sacramento river. This filling up of the channel of the Sacramento river has mostly been done during the last ten or twelve years. Our levee originally was built five feet high; in 1878 we added three feet more, and it has received subsequent additions. The land in my ceived subsequent additions. This district extends from Sacramento city to Freeport. The breaks at my place, and also that at Fern's, occurred in February this year. They set the water back against the Y-street levee to a depth of from two to ten feet, and covered the Riverside road until the latter part of April. It covered the road for three or four days after the break was closed. The debris deposited on our land from that br alt was a c arse white gray sand, destitute of any material that would produce vegetation. A large amount of the would produce vegetation. A large amount of the sand deposits has been carted away to fill in low places. By the break of 1878 two-thirds of the whole cemetery was under water. THE GREAT FLOOD OF 1861.-Twenty years ago this morning at 8 o'clock, the levees, and permitted the debris-laden waters of the bells and word passed over the city that the flood was coming. No one believed it, and no one prepared for it until the water was at their very doors. In about four hours every part of the city was covered with water. Every family who had a second story to their house took refuga in it, and those who lived house took refuge in it, and those who lived in one-story houses fled to the levee for safety. The waters continued to rise until there was The waters continued to rise until there was hardly enough space for a footpath between the water on either side. At evening the water subsided and left vast beds of quicksand scattered over nearly the entire northeastern portion of the city. This was among the first evil effects of hydraulic mining. The soil was so completely covered with sand that it would not produce anything for several years. It was a day that will be long remembered by those who passed through the ordeal.
